  - VC Bartling felt as though there were very positive comments at her presentation

- General Questions: What are your thoughts and impressions of President Carter? What do you anticipate we will learn through the first 100 days? Who is on the President Transitioning Committee and does UNK have representation? What do you think the trajectory of UNK will look like in the coming year?

- Big Idea Item
  - If we had 10,000 students and in-state tuition for all, how would this change our campus?
    - It would have to be just us
    - It would be a big shock to the campus...but it would be a wonderful problem to have
    - It’s not unrealistic to look at seven or eight thousand students
    - How would we get there?
    - Would they all be on campus? Would they be online?
    - How would we count them?
    - What kind of infrastructure buildup does that mean?
    - Sometimes labs are needed—maybe a three day lab and the rest is online
      - Rotational housing type of thing
    - Is our average ACT or GPA going to go up or down?
- We have to have the resources to let people know about the fact that we offer in-state tuition for Colorado and Kansas residents and possibly more

Reports

In particular, a number of female faculty have informed Faculty Senate and/or UNKEA that they were not aware of or knew about the policy but were denied the accommodation stipulated by the following provision:

In order to assure continuity of instruction for students, a female faculty member will normally be excused from instructional duties during the semester or other instructional period that the medical maternity leave, or a majority of said leave, occurs. RP-3.3.13.1

This part of the Board of Regents Maternal Leave policy is inconsistently followed by all of UNK’s colleges and academic departments.

To address this inconsistency, the Faculty Welfare Committee puts forth the proposals below. The members of the Faculty Welfare Committee calls on Faculty Senate to approve these proposals and authorize Faculty Senate Executive Committee to forward them to the UNK Administration. The proposal includes the following:

1. Revising the UNK Faculty Handbook to reflect the University of Nebraska Board of Regents Policies August 16, 2019, Chapter 3. Terms and Conditions of Employment in its entirety. Said chapter reads as follows:

RP-3.3.13 Parental Leave Policies

The following Parental Leave Policies are intended to establish and clarify the leaves available to University faculty and staff in cases of pregnancy, childbirth, and adoption. The general purpose of these policies is to allow employees to balance their work and family life while preserving the legitimate interests of the University as an employer and the public served by the institution. Supervisors are expected to work cooperatively and supportively with employees in the arrangement of leave under these policies.

1. Medical Maternity Leave

Under University policy, and as required by federal law, the time during which an employee or faculty member is unable to work because of a medical disability caused or contributed to by pregnancy, miscarriage, termination of pregnancy, childbirth and recovery therefrom will be covered by the provisions of the University’s sick leave policy or by the provisions of the University’s disability leave program depending on the category and associated leave eligibility of the affected faculty or staff member. Faculty and staff are therefore eligible for paid leave for such absences under the provisions of the applicable leave policy.

There shall be no stipulated medical maternity leave requirement either before or after childbirth. Leave requirements will vary depending upon each employee’s individual circumstances; the advice of an attending physician or other licensed health care provider will normally determine the appropriate length of a leave. An eight-week total leave period for pre-partum and post-partum care and recovery, during which time the employee will be excused from all duties, will be considered normal; however, more or less leave time may be taken based upon individual health circumstances.
In order to assure continuity of instruction for students, a female faculty member will normally be excused from instructional duties during the semester or other instructional period that the medical maternity leave, or a majority of said leave, occurs.

The provisions of Section 3.4.3.3 of the Bylaws of the Board of Regents permitting an employee’s paid leave to be reduced by the amount required to compensate a substitute shall not be exercised in cases of medical maternity leave.

Pages: RP-116 – 117

2. Ask/recommend that Dr. Charles Bicak, Senior Vice Chancellor Academic and Student Affairs, discuss this policy with the Deans Council, encourage Deans to communicate the policy to department chairs, and to include the key provisions of the policy as part of the disability and pregnancy notices sent to the faculty at the beginning of each semester;

And

3. Designate Megan Fryda, or another administrator, as the contact person for faculty members who become pregnant and are in need of information/assistance with Maternal Leave accommodations.

Van Ingen called the meeting to order at 4pm.

A. Update on Advisory Board members: Van Ingen announced that ODI rep Monica Mueller has taken a position elsewhere and will no longer be serving on the Advisory Board. The Board thanked her for 8+ years of work and dedication to the program and students.

B. Minutes: Minutes from November 13, 2019 were reviewed and approved (Weisse/Loughrin). There was no Dec. meeting.

C. Budget update: Van Ingen reported that CAS Dean Teten is covering adjunct pay for this semester.

D. Curricular: Van Ingen reported that enrollment for the spring 2020 intro classes looks great (20 students for WSTD 220 and 14 for ETHES 101).

E. General Studies Reform: Van Ingen shared the proposed draft with Loper 1-10 learning objectives, including Loper 9 (Civic Competency) and Loper 10 (Respect for human diversity). She noted that the History dept. voted in support of the new GS draft and encouraged members to participate in the forums on Canvass and at two scheduled times: Tuesday, January 21 at 3:30 p.m. in WSTC 152W; Wednesday, January 22 at 3:30 p.m. in COPH 131.

F. Assessment: Van Ingen reminded members that the Assessment instrument for 2019-2020 assessment is Exit Interviews with graduating seniors in May. She asked members to think about the questions to ask and who can volunteer to do the interviews. These decisions can be made at the next meetings, before May.

G. Governance Document: Members reviewed the old Governance Document in terms of membership criteria. They agreed to change the document to reflect the WGE/ETHS merger and the CNSS/FAH merger. Members agreed to reorganize board membership so that it totals 14 members: the director, one rep from each college CAS, CBT, COE, 5 at-large faculty from any college/department (preferably those who teach for the program and are a fair representation of both WGS and ETHES courses), Library Faculty Liaison, ODI Staff Liaison, Women’s Center Staff Liaison, and two students (GA and undergraduate, or ETHES and WGS, when possible). They agreed to adjust the voting requirements, allowing all members to vote except for the director (with the exception of a tie vote) and the two student representatives. Van Ingen will also edit the language to reflect Women’s, Gender & Ethnic Studies (not just Women’s Studies), and update language for the member nominating process. A revised Governance Document will be presented at the next meeting for a two-thirds vote, as required by the Governance Document rules for amendment.

H. APR: March 5, 2020 (Thursday before No Limits). Van Ingen finalized the review team with CAS Dean:
Team:

MINUTES
October 16, 2019
History Conference Room

A. WGES Advisory Council Minutes: Minutes from September 18, 2019 were approved (Weisse/Beissel Heath).

B. Budget: update: Van Ingen reported that adjunct pay for last year was not covered by the SVCASA office as has been the practice in past years. This resulted in a carryforward deficit which affected the program’s operating budget for this year and jeopardized plans for continued adjunct staffing for WSTD 220. In addressing this problem, Van Ingen affirmed that the WGES program is now in the CAS college. She is working with Dean Teten on a more secure budget plan. Members discussed annual budget requirements, including director costs, WSTD 220 adjunct costs, No Limits costs (hosting once every three years with speaker and lunch costs, and student research presentation travel/lodging costs to UNL and UNO for the other years in a three-year cycle), event co-sponsorship costs, student research support to national conferences, annual NWSA membership fee, and office supplies (copies, telephone, brochures, miscel). Members also discussed funding support for this year’s No Limits conference in March (hosted by UNK) and suggested several grant possibilities including A&L, and Triota student possibilities with Loper Nights, Catering Funds, and Student Government.

C. Curricular:
1. Courses Spring 2020: Van Ingen handed out the spring course list and encouraged members to publicize the classes. Members reviewed and approved PSCI 325 “Individual Liberties & Civil Rights” (Symington) for ETHS elective credit (Hill/Warren).

2. Course enrollment caps: Members discussed caps for ETHS 101 and WSTD 220 and the purpose for these caps; they supported 25 as a cap for both classes as they are discussion based.

3. Course criteria for ETHS electives: Van Ingen asked members to rework the course criteria requirements for Ethnic Studies electives as the current listing is too vague. They suggested the revised draft (see below), and will edit and vote on it at the November meeting.

Old Requirements: Ethnic Studies Course Review Criteria (from web homepage on 10-19-16)
A class that is to be offered as a designated Ethnic Studies course is expected to focus on the presentation, assessment, and examination of historical, social, cultural, political, economic and/or psychological factors that influence the life of ethnic minorities within the United States. Ethnic Studies courses should examine the realities of the socially constructed categories of ethnicity manifested within the United States with a focus on how those realities and constructs relate to Hispanic, Native American, Asian American and African American populations.

New draft to edit and approve at November 2019 meeting:
Approximately 50% of the course focus -- the content, assignments, papers, and class discussion -- is on race and/or ethnicity. This focus can include historical, social, cultural, political, economic and/or psychological factors that influence the life of ethnic minorities within the United States. Ethnic Studies courses should examine the realities of the socially constructed categories of race and ethnicity, including an intersectional analysis regarding race, ethnicity, class, gender, sexual orientation, and/or religion.

Current Requirements for Women’s & Gender Studies (last approved 9/12/07):
A Women’s Studies course takes a feminist approach to teaching:
• At least 50% of the course focus -- the content, papers, and class discussion -- is on women and/or gender. This focus can include women’s contributions, concerns, ideas, philosophies, issues, history, artistry and/or a gendered analysis of at least half of the course content. For instance, in discussions on race, class, ethnicity, sexual orientation and other systems of domination, one could point out how one experiences gender, subordination, and agency. Course content can also be analyzed in terms of gendered femininities and masculinities.

- Women’s Studies classes should be taught with a method that fosters student participation and collaborative learning, and values the students’ experiences.

(WSAC: originally approved 11/01; revisions approved 9/12/07)

3. General Studies Reform
Members discussed current GS reform efforts and agreed to consider a vote of no confidence in the General Studies Council upon reaching a consensus on a proposal that will be circulated by email. (Strain/Weisse)

D. APR in November of December: Van Ingen reported that she expects to circulate a draft report for feedback and analysis at the November meeting.

E. Assessment: Van Ingen reported that the assessment will involve an alumni survey this year. The report is due Oct 31.

F. Co-curricular:

a) March 6, 2020 No Limits Conference at UNK: Van Ingen plans to email the CFP soon. The due date for proposals will be January 31, 2020. She has reserved the Ponderosa Rooms & Sandhill Room for March 6, 2020 and confirmed the keynote speaker, Dr. Lyndsey Churchill from the University of Central Oklahoma.

b) 30th Anniversary Event: October 31: Van Ingen reported that the event’s subcommittee (Beissel Heath, Hill, Lindner, Loughrin, Tassi, Van Ingen, Warren, Weisse) has worked diligently to organize the event, “Pearl of a Program: 30 Years of Women’s Studies (1989-2019). ISAC Minutes

A meeting of the International Studies Advisory Council was held on Thursday Jan.23, 2020 at 3:30 in the Jennings Room of the Library.

The meeting began with further discussion of possible invited speakers for the spring 2020. Lilly and Weisse both provided names and biographies of speakers with expertise in the topic of the Preservation of Cultural Heritage. Lilly will follow up.

Then the Council discussed the Mission statement at some length and came up with a draft which has had subsequent minor edits. It reads:

International Studies is a collaborative and interdisciplinary program designed to prepare students to function in the global environment. All students who earn a Bachelor’s Degree in International Studies can expect to gain transferrable aptitudes such as critical thinking, teamwork, leadership, and communication skills. In addition, they develop intercultural fluency, including proficiency in a second language, the ability to receive and apply information in global contexts, appreciation of diversity, and recognition of international perspectives and values. Experiential Learning, such as Study Abroad or international/international-related internships, enhances their ability to adapt to new circumstances and take initiative when faced with unexpected challenges.

The Council then discussed various options for evaluating Intercultural Competencies. Ann Marie Park agreed to organized a committee meeting on assessment in the near future on this and other issues.

Lilly noted that before any further steps could be taken on Program change she wanted to meet with Chairs and ensure that all appropriate courses had been considered for inclusion.

The meeting adjourned at 4:30. The next meeting will be February 27th at 3:30 in the Jennings Room.

II. Health and Sports Center Availability for October 25 Food Festival
   a. Yousef Ghamedi reported that there are UNK volleyball games Friday and Saturday, October 23-24, 2020. The committee discussed ways to possibly be able to still have a food festival Sunday, October 25, such as moving stage to south end of arena, serving food in the upper concourse, etc. so most of the set up and dress rehearsals can happen in spite of volleyball having the north half of the arena floor. Bonnie Coffman will set a meeting with ISA Advisor Tracy Falconer, Tim Burkink, and Yousef to discuss the feasibility in greater detail.

III. 2020 Conference Theme and potential speakers
   a. The current theme for the conference is The Global Impact of News and Media. Carol Lilly proposed adding a little more to the title to make it more compelling. Several ideas were discussed. Committee members will come to next meeting with additional ideas.
   b. Potential speakers discussed:

      ii. Sarah McCammon, covers Mid-Atlantic and Southeast for NPR’s National Desk. During the 2016, she was NPR’s lead political reporter assigned to the Trump campaign. The committee discussed her and thought she would be good but no one plans to reach out to her at this time.
      iii. Carol Lilly will talk to Michelle Warren about finding someone in the arts, and will talk to Will Avilés about other potential speakers.
      iv. Theresa Yaw suggested finding an influencer in a growing social media platform. Yao Zheng will visit with Thompson Scholars to see if they have ideas related to this.
      v. Coffman asked Logan Johansen to look into documentaries that could be shown during the conference.
      vi. Matt Mims will look into Robert Jensen, a retired Journalism Professor from Austin, TX who he has heard speak.
      vii. Sonja Bickford will ask her colleagues for speaker ideas.

The next meeting will take place Thursday, February 13, at 2:00 PM in COE B155.
In 1964, twenty-one foreign delegates visited the campus of Kearney State College with the objective to “awaken and properly channel the interest of our future leaders in education in the search for an understanding of the issues facing the peoples of the world.” The conference program, structured to maximize student contact with the delegates, was developed by a faculty-student committee representing all undergraduate schools of the college. Over the next 12 years, the Midwest Conference on World Affairs grew to become a multi-campus, state-wide event that brought in over 200 diplomats from nearly 100 different nations, as well as representatives from the US Government and business leaders. Kearney State students were given the opportunity to hear and interact with dignitaries in general sessions, classes, and seminars, as well as informally. Student delegations from other campuses and area high schools also attended.

      Brown/Darveau moved to approve the list of courses. Motion carried.

3. Review/Revision of General Studies Program:

   a. Reports/Updates from Working Groups:
Group 1 – Blauwkamp stated their group focused on the structure of the program and the learning outcomes. The HLC requirements were used as a guide when looking at the structure of the program. One goal was to make room in the General Studies program for electives.
Blauwkamp discussed the dispositional requirements in the proposed program (Loper 9 & 10). Courses that meet one of these learning objectives may also meet a broad-knowledge objective, which would allow students to have more choices.

Group 2 – Dillon stated their group did their best to stick to the charge and look at only program level outcomes. Dillon stated it was difficult to look at program outcomes when we don’t have a program. The group began by addressing the question: What should a UNK graduate look like? They then used a two-pronged approach. First they edited the existing UNK GS program level outcomes, reducing them from 6 to 5. They then examined UNL’s ACE program, and a proposal from the UNK College of Education, which was based on ACE. The group took the 10 ACE / COE outcomes and condensed them into 7 “distribution areas,” all of which satisfy various GS program level outcomes. The goal was to make a program that is more compatible with ACE and to facilitate students’ ability to transfer into UNK.

The group also recommended eliminating the Portal and Capstone courses. They suggested that the various Departments’ capstone courses, undergraduate research projects, etc., could be assessed to demonstrate that GS program level outcomes have been achieved and carried to the higher levels – we do not need a specific GS Capstone course.

Brown had a concern about the departmental outcomes because in his department there is no way to have a departmental capstone course due to 5 different academic programs within the department.

Umland likes the groups program as it is not overly busy.

Group 3 – Darveau indicated their group focused on: What should a graduate from UNK look like? What skills do they need? The group pulled ideas from UNK, UNL and Wayne State. They recommend eliminating the Articulate the Relevance learning outcome completely and they looked at new ways to deliver the program (6 hour blocks, grouping courses by themes, etc.)

The group worried about the incentives for departments to improve student learning? For example, full-time faculty teaching GS courses, co-teaching, and/or incorporating new ideas such as themes. We need to capture the students’ attention and engage them more in the GS program. Themed courses would be geared toward incoming freshmen.

Blauwkamp distributed a handout of the combined proposals.

Loper 1: would be a First-year seminar which would be unique and would be waived for transfer students who come in at sophomore standing. The first-year seminar would provide flexibility to allow departments to propose a number of different, creative ideas. Discussion focused on how to determine eligibility for waivers. Estes and Pearson indicated that it would be possible to use a combination of credit-hours completed (e.g., 18 hours) and admissions status. This combination would distinguish between students transferring from another college or university and students coming in with equivalent hours but as first time freshmen.

Wells is concerned themes may bog down the Council in discussions and the process of approving a new GS program. Themes can be discussed at a later date. Darveau expressed concern that if themes are not designed now they will never happen. Other comments indicated that themes seem to capture the spirit of Dr. Bicak’s comment on “revolutionary program changes.”

Bridges mentioned it would not hurt to ask the campus to give their opinions on themes. Providing a unique opportunity to students is a good thing.
Blauwkamp suggested that if we go ahead with First-year seminar, let’s let people try different ways to deliver those seminars and see what works.

What is the effect of Loper 9 and 10 (Dispositional requirement)? Can a student meet these in other ways? These are from the HLC expectations. Can the requirements be met with a stand-alone course or could there be classes that meet one of these in another area requirement? Need to always be cognizant of transfer students and the NE Transfer Initiative.

Seshadri/Blauwkamp moved to approve sending the number of hours (30-31) and the draft of Loper’s 1-10 - excluding the additional notations marked with asterisks, the “1 course” notations, the program level outcomes, and the additional considerations - to campus for comment. Motion carried.

The program level outcomes need work and will not be sent out at this time.

Discussion to be continued at a special meeting scheduled for December 19 (time to be determined via email) – focus of meeting will be to finalize information to be sent to campus for comment / input.
