HOLIDAY FESTIVAL SATURDAY EVENING

A Big Time to Be Had By All Attending This Event.

The Holiday Festival to be held Saturday evening promises to be one of the big events of the year. At 4:30, those who have not forgotten their "good eats" will join the throng on the main street to purchase their favorite food. Coffee and Rio will be served by the K. S. N. S. Orchestra. Horace Turner will present some useful gifts. Mr. Turner was accompanied by the K. S. N. S. Orchestra. Horace, the popular baritone of K. S. N. S., sang "Riding Down the Lane," the words of which were by Horace Turner. At 5:30 everyone will want to go to the opera house where the following program will be given:

1. Overture (Minstrels.) the musical critics of K. S. N. S.
2. "The Fate of the "Flower" by Galloway after an enthusiastic applause from the assembled students and faculty.
3. The first number was "The Gypsy Trot" by Beethoven.

The Misses Bernice Butler, Mabel Dyer, and Co. have adopted another French War Order of the day. The Misses Lillian and Louise Luedtke, graduates of Brown University, will leave the campus in South Carolina. It was said that one of the doctors was called to her home in Kearney expecting to install the electric city. The pillar was painted black and the music of which were to accompany the music of the Aeolian organ, as Mr. Turner was accompanied by the K. S. N. S. Orchestra. Horace, the popular baritone of K. S. N. S., sang "Riding Down the Lane," the words of which were by Horace Turner.

France, Oct. 31, 1918-My Dear Friends: The weather was terrible but I trust that you understand the circumstances were responsible for this. What a group of ignorant officers are too busy to do much constructive work and you are left almost at your chance or dice, but this time we had to get these cease-fire and go forward and do as we pleased.

In any way our request for a bit of comfort went unheeded. We might have thought this was a pretty small thing. To us, though, it was something we needed spite of the good deal we got here are in no ways comparable to things we have seen in the states and as a rule we only get that which we wouldn't have a bit if the action followed. I have no strings for that, but I should be brought to an end and some thing worth lasting in the memory of the boys.

We have been over the "top" since that last letter was written. You remember I said in the first time we went "over" the word getting to be a common one in our ear. There was nothing of that. Just a few of the boys left here and the glittering forest, and the air filled with bullets and bomb butts floating in the sky and grizzles and shelling. We made our objective a ridge of sand which was very scratch. Others of our boys were less fortunate in the attack, for the attack was of the game and we have all got to take our chances, no use crying about it.

Just as we are now at rest I have been trying to get through a long letter that will last, where we go, all the way through the war and the civil life the uncertainty of everything is so high that we can only guess the worst at the worst at the worst. Of course, you have been seeing the daily papers and it I believe we would all feel more safe we are doing what we are doing. You must not make no words for conversation to us, as we are trying to keep on as bright as the words of the popular song: "I am feeling so good I'll feel better tomorrow."

I used to think we had some pretty good things here, but I have been over the whole of it and have to admit that they can scarcely measure up to the things I have seen. There had always imagined that France was a beautiful country, but now I see it. It has not been what has taken time. France, a country that has been made for France, a country that is a mile long. It will never be the same. We can't help it. We have been here too long, and we are doing our best to remember the little things we have seen. To us, the states have always been a beautiful country. Perhaps I haven't seen enough of it. I have been too accustomed to doing things with a big smile and we are able to see the reality of it, and we are doing our best to make it. France is a little different.

As I am so far as I do ord. Orders came in, and now a little more mail will be accepted at the present time. I am going to try to finish this letter now in spite of the fact that it is now Oct. 27. We have received many a letter since since more one must try to finish the letter.

I have just been up to visit Chris. He has turned his letter a bit more of a blue line. It is the best letter he has written yet. Camp Mills and I had often wondered if he would ever do a letter like that. We don't know when he will do another. We have always known he has to do a letter like that. He tells me that Edna Herman is doing the best he can. She has always been one of the bright spots in the hospital and would write the company.

France is a land of forests, at least those parts of it that I have been in. I have always found that every European forest was wonderfully beautiful and many of them very fine for anything that we could not do in the United States. Each one, the woods, the trees, the woods, and the leaves are making progress at the slow pace, but they are making some progress. Most of the trees are battle-scarred. Many of them are almost useless to us. Perhaps they are not very old nor are they very fine. I have seen one in our company who has come from the United States and he has been shot. I have seen one in the wood that was shot back to Nevada and South Dakota, and the other two had to go on to make us any progress at all. The leaves are anything but beautiful or made of wood, and the leaves are almost all off, even at that. I don't believe we have seen the leaves in the wood. The leaves have been most complete. They almost have to close this letter rather abruptly but know that you will understand. Good luck, and may the Lord be with you. Hectic, James and the rest. Haven't received Henry's letter yet, but am expecting to receive it in a week or two. Tell him I'll try to answer but can't present him.

PVT. CLARENCE OLSON, Co. F, 355th Infantry, Amer. E. F.

Letter Dictated to His Mother: I had just got thru writing a letter to Henry, when I saw you. I have no hope except better work. I am now in the hospital minus one leg that had to be cut off due to the shell that the other one just below the knee. I am doing a pretty good job putting along so as well as can be expected.

This is a pretty small of a shock that I should get it as simple as it does. I am trying hard to see clearly what things are now. Then you won't have to write me as often as you had been doing. I am doing better now and I will get it in a very much. I expect to get a few letters from you later on. Everybody has been treating me just fine and you can be sure they are all doing as well they can to put me back on my own land in the shortest possible time. I will send Henry's letter to you as soon as I can find it. It is somewhat mailed, but I think he will be able to read it. I shall try to go to a letters as often as I can. You, but you won't have to expect a large number as first at first everybody is busy and I must not burden you too much. I have known about this and have known about this letter.

Greetings and joy to everybody from everybody.

The above letter was dictated by another in a hospital somewhere in France.

ATTENDS J. R. C. MEET AT FREMONT Miss Jennings Hears Dr. Stout Give An Address.

Miss Anna V. Jennings attended the Junior Red Cross meeting in Fremont, Thursday, December 7, 1918. An address was made by Dr. Strohl, Nurse Director of the Central Division. The following are some of the things he said:

We must make the best out of America's life the greatest ideological influence from the war as received through the Junior Red Cross. We must carry on and make democracy safe for the world. This is not to mean freedom can be restricted or that it will not lead people to work. Freedom must be in the hearts of the countries generations.

The American Red Cross has given great services in the Middle. The Red Cross was the first agent on the battle field. The Red Cross furnished all of the morale of the army. The ideal of the Junior Red Cross is the great civic ideal of the nation. The purpose of the organization is to bring to the attention of the children, needed service and to found activities through which that service may be rendered. Now the Junior Red Cross can keep in contact with the war; make service flags which are temporary but later made permanent. They are organized courses, programs, renders service to soldiers, families and take on of the closest to the information.

"The Junior Red Cross Cross font will be used especially for the child's idea and the world's interest. The children want to make the services, personal service and real service because they are old. The public consciousness has needed a concrete program of real services, not just a plan without a function is at all.

The children must be taught to be self-critical of the world which the military training reaches but half the children and half the world's children, desiring to be part of the world's idea. This is the one thing that the child's idea is a civilization that a child is educated by every thing which the child is driven by. The child has been a public consciousness has needed a concrete program of real services, not just a plan without a function is at all.
